I just went to the link you sent. It says they were posted in July 2015. In any case I cannot open them on my computer.

Yes, they were posted in January 2014. (See field boundaries download for more info: <http://www.conservation.ca.gov/dog/maps/Pages/GISMapping2.aspx>)

I downloaded the file and matched it up to the oil and gas fields listed in the California Oil and Gas Field Volumes from their website (later edition than the one approved for AEs by R9).

On Monday, the state told us it would be three years until they have GIS shape files for the approved exemptions in CA.
